Utilities Building Program Urged by Using RFC Funds

Officials Declare President
Promotes Federally—Financed Expansion in Utility Industry to End Slump

$1,000,000,000

Huge Sum Available at Once Says Chairman Jones of RFC

Washington, April 21 (AP)—A high administration official said
today that President Roosevelt's efforts to promote federally-financed expansion in the utilities
industry were aimed at eventual stimulation of a huge utilities
building program.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation announced yesterday
it was ready to meet the financial needs of all comers in an attempt to end the industry's construction
slump.

White House advisors have estimated that possibly a $1,000,- 000,000 utilities building program
could be undertaken immediately
with quick and far-reaching effects in other industries such as steel, cement, brick and lumber.

Utilities executives told the president several months ago they were about $3,000,000 behind normal building schedules.

Impetus to the campaign to enlist utilities in the recovery movement came from a conference yesterday between the President,
Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC and William O. Douglas and John W. Hanes of the securities commission.

Government Now Ready
Jones said afterward the utilities
had complained they were unable to get money for expansion
and that now the RFC, with available funds of $1,500,000,000, was ready to help supply that money,
either through loans or through
purchase of bonds.

Another informed official said
that several small companies have evidenced a desire to obtain government money and that the administration "hopes the larger ones also will take advantage" of the RFC offer.

Other phases of the recovery
program went forward swiftly.
The House appropriations committee called Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator, to testify on the supervision of work relief.

Administrator Harry Hopkins,
appearing before the committee
yesterday, forecast an increased relief load beginning July 1. He said the $1,250,000,000 requested
for relief from July 1 to February 1, 1939, would care for 2,800,000 unemployed, 200,000 more than
at present.

Mr. Roosevelt prepared to send Congress by tomorrow the latest message recommending rectification of state-federal taxation of future issues of government securities and the salaries of all public officials.

New low-rent housing and slum clearance projects totaling $40,228,000 received Presidential approval.

3 Tools—$15

Buffalo, N. Y., April 21 (AP)—
The tool of an automobile horn in Buffalo was appraised at $5 by City Judge Patrick J. Keeler.
Pawlik, charged with blowing his auto horn in the small hours of the morning, was asked by Judge Keeler: "How many times did you blow?" "Oh,
about three times," Pawlik replied. "Well, that will cost you $5 a tool. And three tools makes it a total of $15," said the judge yesterday. "The citizens
need a rest from horn tooters."

Rochester, N. Y., April 21 (AP)—
Dr. Louis C. Kress, assistant director of the State Institute for the Study of Malignant Diseases, believes education offers the solution of the cancer problem.

"I would like to see every doctor in the world stop research study and treatment of cancer for two years," he said. "And I want each to devote that time to an intensive educational campaign
among the public."

"I am convinced education is the solution of the cancer problem, not expensive hospitals for care of patients and endowments
for research into causes and cures."

Addressing a nurses' institute,
Dr. Kress pointed out that a "surgeon at the time of Christ performed a successful operation for

'Big Apple' Goes to Gotham for Ulster
Friday to Publicize Apple Blossoms

As Part of State "Eat More Apples" Drive, to Invite Whalen to Festival, and to Let Big Town Know
What's Taking Place Here May 6 to 8

Albany, N. Y., April 21 (AP)—New York state's "big apple," accompanied by six comely girls, one an aspirant to the title of Ulster County Apple Blossom Queen, will visit New York city tomorrow as part of the state's "eat more apples" drive.

The "big apple," standing four feet seven inches tall and measuring nearly 21 feet in circumference, was constructed by Agricultural Department artisans originally for exhibition at the state fair in Syracuse last year.

The apple and the girls, all Ulster county high school pupils, will enter New York city by way of the George Washington Bridge
about noon tomorrow, the Agriculture Department announced.

At 10:30 o'clock at the Empire State Building on Fifth avenue
the float will pause and the six pretty girls will extend an official invitation to Grover A. Whalen, president of the World's Fair Corporation, to attend the Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival on May 6.

At City Hall, the apple (and the girls) will be welcomed by William F. Morgan, commissioner of markets, and other officials.

The young women are Jane Ball, Joan Cunningham, Virginia
Whitson, Amy Munn, Edna Beatty and Gladys Klotke.

The festival queen will be crowned at Modena on May 7. Miss Jane Ball, of Kingston, is the only one of the group who aspires to the title of Ulster Apple Blossom Queen.

Japanese Occupy

Japanese Sending a Large

Reverses Suffered

Shanghai, April 21 (AP)—After 24 hours of sanguinary street
fighting, Japan's reinforced Shan-
tung army completely occupied Lini today.

The Chinese high command announced the withdrawal of its forces from the battered walled town, a key point in the Yi river sector.

Japanese troops, through which Japanese in a new offensive are attempting to drive southwest-
ward to the relief of a besieged garrison at Yihshien, 40 miles away.

The Chinese took up new defense positions two miles south.
Although Japanese claimed domination of Lini 24 hours earlier, Chinese insisted until late today they had not abandoned the breach in the walls and that their flag still was flying over the town.

Forty-seven miles southwest of Lini is Taierhsien, scene of the recent defeat of the Japanese.

Chinese battalions which last March, on the Grand canal and Tientsin-Pukow railway, dug
in 22 miles north of Suchow.

A Japanese garrison surrounded and besieged at Tsao-tsun in the vicinity of Yihshien, a desperate sortie in an effort to cut its way through but was forced to withdraw within the walls.

Political Tension
Tokyo, April 21 (AP)—Large numbers of new troops are being sent to China where recent Japanese military reverses have created high political tension at home.

Streets are filled with departing soldiers bidding farewell to their families, and the scenes are comparable to those of last September when Japan entered the conflict in earnest.

The political crisis which has risen from the China campaign
may come to a head when Premier Prince Munomaro Kono reports to the emperor tomorrow.

The premier returned to work
today after nearly a month's absence attributed to illness, during which rumors grew that he would resign in opposition to further extreme war measures urged by the military leaders.

The prince himself said in an interview that "there is no need to worry much" about "relations between the government and
fighting services" due to the "current China situation."

He did say, however, that "the China question must be the basis
for solution of all outstanding domestic problems," and "beyond
that I have no ideas about cabinet changes."

Drowns Wednesday

Swimming in Cold Water of Swift Stream

Joseph Jaycox, Jr., 11-year-old Wallkill High School lad, was drowned Wednesday afternoon in the muddy waters of the Wallkill
river some distance below the old covered bridge near Tuttleston.

After he had rescued a smaller companion from the river, the drowning took place between 3
and 4 o'clock but the body was not recovered until about 8:45 o'clock despite the efforts of the emergency crew of the Central Hudson and officers from Sheriff
Abram Molyneux's office and State Troopers.

The body was finally recovered
after grappling operations had been continued for several hours
by Deputy Sheriff Clayton Vredenburg and Deputy Charles Mc-Cullough, who were being assisted by several local citizens who gave the officers excellent assistance in the operation. It was perhaps 1,000 feet down stream from the point where the lad disappeared
that the grappling hooks contacted the unfortunate lad's ankle and he was brought to the surface.

At the point where the body
was recovered the water was not deep but the swift current and the muddy water made operations
difficult.

Coroner Lester DuBois of New Paltz gave a verdict of accidental drowning and the body was taken to his New Paltz undertaking parlors. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Modena M. E.
Church with interment in the New Paltz Rural Cemetery.

From the story gathered of the companions of young Jaycox, he
with four other lads were hiking
along the river enjoying the warm weather when someone suggested
the first swim of the season.

Water Cold
When they reached a point a few hundred feet from the old covered bridge they dived their clothing and jumped in the chilly
water. The current in the stream was swift and the water cold and muddy. At this point which is between Tuttleston and Gardiner
the stream varies from a shallow body to holes 10 or 12 feet deep.

Trouble started when Earl Coy, 9, of Modena, got beyond his depth and suffered cramps and called for help. Jaycox went to his assistance and after rescuing the lad and placing him in shallow water near shore he returned to the cold water. Apparently he too suffered cramps and being in deep water was unable to gain the shore.

Herbert Johnson, 12, colored lad told Deputy Sheriff Vredenburg
that he saw Jaycox being carried down stream by the swift current and went for aid. Jaycox
he said apparently had suffered cramps because he appeared to be struggling to keep afloat as he was carried down the stream. Five times he came to the surface struggling to keep afloat before he finally disappeared from the view
of his companions who were unable to reach him and render aid.
It was through the directions
given by Johnson that Deputy Sheriff Vredenburg was able to locate the body. After pointing out the spot where the lads had first gone in the lad showed where he had last seen Jaycox appear and it was perhaps 1,500 feet
down stream toward New Paltz
that the body was finally recovered.

Beside Jaycox and Johnson
there was George Stewart, 12,
Richard Stewart, 8, and Earl Coy,
9, in the party. All lived in Modena.

New York, April 21 (AP).—Jean Colwell's proposal for a "Blond Brigade" to end war is going to get some radio time. It will be ten minutes on WJZ-NBC Sunday afternoon. The actress, who has been seeking volunteers for a plan which would place blond beauties in the trenches and thus bewilder the enemy with pulchritude, has announced the "First National Conference" of the blond brigade and it will be proceedings of this assembly which will go on the air. The blond announcer, Nelson Case, will have charge of the broadcast.

Wise Products Co. Action Taken Up Vs. Wiltwyck Firm

An action brought by The Wise Products Co., Inc., to recover $160 for materials furnished to the Wiltwyck Coal and Ice Company in 1936 to fix a roof on the plant here was taken up in county court this morning before County Judge Traver and a jury. The jury was selected on Wednesday and an adjournment was then taken until this morning when the case was continued.

The plaintiffs seek to recover under a contract for roofing material supplied in March of 1936 and which the defendants admit were received and used. The defendant corporation however brings a counter-claim. They admit delivery of the goods but claim breach of warranty and seek to recover some $90 under their claim that the materials purchased and used failed to meet the warranty of the company selling it.

Plaintiffs are represented by Frank Campochiaro and the defendants by Arthur B. Lwig.

Roofing Material

Plaintiffs allege they supplied a shipment of roofing to the defendant corporation on order to fix a roof on the plant and that they have not been paid although they have rendered a bill. The defense is that the materials were received and applied as directed but that the product failed to protect the roof and it is the contention of the defendants that the roof continued to leak after the materials had been applied. They claim they notified the company several times of the failure of the product to do so, and received no reply although they sent a bill for the material.

Letters From Miles

The plaintiff corporation produced letter from their files which they claim were replies to complaints made by the ice company. The ice company denied ever having received any reply to complaints. The Wise Co. claims no complaint was made until two or three weeks after the material was applied and until a bill was sent for the material. The officials of the ice company claim they complained to the Wise firm about two or three weeks after the material had been applied and after the first rain storm when it was discovered the roof still leaked.

The defendants claim when they were unable to get any reply to their complaint they finally purchased roofing in November of 1936 and laid a new roof.

The Wise Co. claims they sent a man to the local plant on the complaint but the officials of the company were not at the plant at the time.

Colony Club Meeting

The Colony Club held its meeting Tuesday evening in the club rooms. Three new candidates were unanimously voted in as active members, namely: Harold Blum, he of Catskill and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Boyle of Kingston. The club is now in waiting the return of its president, Edward Parsons Jr. on April 26. He has been at his home in Brooklyn for two months. The last of the play and also the director, Miss Marie McEntee, is well satisfied with the way the play, "The Mill of the God," is progressing. The date set for the play is Friday, May 1 at the West Cataraugus hall. Tickets for this event can now be obtained from the members of The Colony Club and members of the Junior Luthers Lodge.

4 egg yolks
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup raisins

Beat yolks. Add seasonings and cream. Add rest of the ingredients and mix lightly. Half-fill greased custard dishes. Set in a pan of hot water and bake for 20 minutes in a slow oven. Carefully unmold onto a warm platter. Surround with vegetable sauce.

These omelets may be served with a savory sauce and broiled bacon as a breakfast dish.

Vegetable Sauce
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup diced onion
1/2 cup diced celery
1/2 cup diced carrot
1/2 cup diced tomato
1/2 cup diced mushroom
1/2 cup diced green pepper
1/2 cup diced cauliflower

Aluminum Is From Powder

Resembling Cooking Soda

Aluminum comes from the oxide alumina—a fine white powder that resembles cooking soda. Alumina comprises about 8 per cent of the earth's crust. Iron is the next most abundant and comprises about 51 per cent. Alumina is the basis of all clay, which itself is produced by the spontaneous decomposition of granite and similar rocks. In a free state, alumina occurs in the form of corundum and is emery, the common kind used for polishing.

Aluminum and oxygen mixed together with a little foreign matter to add coloring, make artificial rubies and sapphires. The making of such compositions was one of the first uses of aluminum, states a writer in the Washington Star.

A German scientist, Frederick Woehler, was the first to extract aluminum from the earth. De Ville, a French chemist, was the first to place the metal on a commercial scale, having undertaken experiments at the request of Napoleon III, emperor of France. Unable to produce the metal in large quantities, commercial possibilities never went beyond the use of jewelry.

For a half century chemists in many parts of Europe struggled to get the metal in large amounts out of the most abundant substance—alumina. This struggle was ended February 10, 1886, through the genius of a chemically minded young American, Charles Martin Hall, a student of Oberlin college.

Hall conceived the idea of using electricity. He had learned that alumina could not be electrically isolated in the presence of water, and that it would not dissolve in any common solvent such as alcohol, ether or benzol.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 21, 1938

THE BASIC TROUBLE

"The Sage of Emporia" made a sage reply to a question asked of 20 or more newspaper editors by Editor & Publisher. The question was: "With many essential elements for recovery present, what principal obstacle prevents it?" William Allen White answered as follows:

"The obstacle to the thing we call recovery is not fear of one man. If Roosevelt, Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin all were to die within a month, the obstacle would remain. For hundreds of millions of men, round pegs in square industrial holes not functioning fully to capacity, although our presidents and dictators all were dead, would still feel that the distributive system of Christendom is not perfect. These hundreds of millions will continue to agitate for a larger share than they now receive in the gross product of the machine age.

"Universal education and the common use of machinery have fused a new dynamite of discontent in the world. In Europe, the common man has turned futilely to the dictator. Soon the dictator will pass. In America, the forgotten man turned to Roosevelt. Roosevelt also is temporary. His followers are here to stay. Unless the wisdom of man can find some fair way to secure exceptional rewards to exceptional men who have organizing talents, and at the same time to establish a universally high standard of living which will satisfy the common man who has only a common talent, we shall have no peace in business or industry.

"It is a world problem facing modern man. No leader nor any small group of men is the menace. The menace is inherent in the problem of the distribution of income. Neither side is right."

In a period of experimentation, it is not possible to experiment along the line hinted at, forgetting personalities and politics, assuming that the issue is what Mr. White says it is, and going forward from there?

A SUBVERSIVE EDITOR

Really, Dr. Morris Fishbein, who is editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association and rated as a leading authority in the field of medicine, is very upsetting. In a public address we find him saying such unexpected things as these:

"That meat doesn't make animals ferocious, nor do vegetables make them tame. Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini are all vegetarians. So are the most vicious animals there are—the gorilla, bull, rhinoceros and African buffalo.

"That brain power doesn't depend on what you eat, nor is fish a brain food. You could feed a moron a ton of salt mackerel, and he would still be a moron.

"That reducing diets are unnecessary, and the best exercise for getting rid of excess fat is simply to shake the head from side to side when the food is passed around.

"That there is no magic in food.

"That sauerkraut juice, formerly regarded as a miraculous tonic, is 'simply brine'.

"That there are no substitutes for the digestive organs, and they should have work to do."

It wouldn't be surprising now to find him coming right out and saying there isn't any magic in medicine. Some good doctors lately have said that very thing, telling patients that the way to keep well is to live normally and sensibly. It's worth hiring a good doctor to learn that.

COSTLY ILLNESS

Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon-general of the United States, is interested in a broader use of medical facilities. While expressing great admiration for the progress and high ideals of American medicine, he believes it might be of more practical service to the nation. Many of the best physicians, he says, give little attention to the wide prevalence of disease and methods of dealing with it on a broad scale.

He calls attention to the excessive amount of illness among the poor. One-fourth of all sickness in the country, he says, occurs in families on public relief, and another fourth in families with less than $1,000 a year. Thus

"half the illness is among the very poor." More than a million people, mostly heads of families, are unemployed because of accident or disease, which is mostly preventable. "It would be cheaper for us as a nation," he declares, "to spend more for the prevention and cure of disease than to continue to bear its money cost."

If, as Dr. Parran believes, "the common good" should be the first interest of medical organization, and if it would really be cheaper to treat disease frankly as a public rather than a private problem, we would be on the verge of a new era in health and medicine. But there will be a good deal of argument before any such broad principle as public responsibility for all medical treatment is adopted.

CHINESE SPIRIT

Japan may win the present Chinese war in spite of recent defeats. But it is clear that she cannot gain any such overwhelming victory as she expected when she lightly entered North China and Shanghai. She may be able to hold only a part of her gains in the northern provinces, and some of the principal seaports, and cannot be sure of them. A reasonable guess now would be a peace this year or next on some compromise basis, with each nation "saving its face," but with Japan weakened morally and almost wrecked financially, and China, though suffering great loss in ruined cities and farm lands, immensely improved in morale and prestige.

The rebirth of the Chinese nation may date from the victory of Taichewang. It is incredible how it has lifted the spirit of 400,000,000 people to learn that the invaders are not supermen—that the Chinese themselves when adequately armed can stand against the hitherto unbeaten Japanese, and so against any foe likely to come against them.

Here is a phenomenon perhaps more remarkable and significant than Germany's military recovery. We may yet see a modern and alert China, sharing in modern civilization and making noble contributions of her own to world progress. All the more reason, then, for the American people, always friends of China, to cultivate that friendship.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)

IS PATIENT IMPROVING?
 When an infection occurs in the body, the body's defenses immediately use all their power to get the infection out of the body or, at least, prevent the infection from doing much damage.

The body's heat is increased to "warm up" the white corpuscles of the blood, which also greatly increase in number; the blood pressure increases to make sure that all parts of the body will get a good supply of blood; the heart rate increases to supply extra blood and remove wastes from the tissues. Thus a physician after taking temperature, heart rate, blood pressure, and examining the blood to see if white corpuscles have increased in number in the proper proportion to the other findings, knows whether or not the patient's defensive forces are putting up a good fight against the infection.

Sometimes, when an infection remains a long time, the body's defensive forces get tired, and the blood pressure, temperature, and heart rate become lower or slower. It is often of importance to the physician therefore in treating these prolonged infections—tuberculosis, rheumatism, and others—to know whether his patient is improving, holding his own, or becoming worse. To help him to learn more accurately the patient's condition what is known as the blood sedimentation test is made. Dr. M. G. Peterman, Milwaukee, in the Wisconsin Medical Journal, describes the method used at Milwaukee Children's Hospital.

"One part of 2 to 5 per cent sodium citrate solution is mixed with four parts of freshly drawn blood from a vein. The mixture is allowed to stand in a tube or syringe and the resulting fall of the red blood corpuscles is measured either in amount of serum (liquid part of blood) or in time for the red corpuscles to reach a certain mark. The normal readings show a certain fraction of an inch clear serum (liquid part of the blood showing above sediment in 1 hour, and slightly more than four times the amount in 2 hours. A number of tests are made."

Dr. Peterman makes this definite statement: "Regardless of other findings (temperatures, heart rate, blood pressure) a rapid rate of sedimentation or settling down of the red corpuscles shows that there is a very active or acute inflammation present or the presence of an active growth such as cancer."

If rate at which the red corpuscles sink becomes slower it is a sign of recovery; if rate becomes faster it is a sign that patient is worse.

HEALTH BOOKLETS AVAILABLE

Eight helpful health booklets are available for readers of The Freeman. They are: Eating Your Way to Health; Why Worry About Your Heart?; Neurosis; The Common Cold; Overweight and Underweight; Allergy or Being Sensitive to Foods and Other Substances; Scourge (gonorrhea and syphilis); and How Is Your Blood Pressure? They may be obtained by sending ten cents for each one desired, to cover cost of service and handling, to The Bell Library, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y., mentioning the name of this newspaper.

The Boxwood Barrier

By BLANCHE SMITH FERGUSON

The Story So Far: Judith Goodloe, of an old Maryland family, carries self-made Reuben Oliver for a money-only to discover he is a hoodlum. After a poverty-stricken period during which Reuben gets work in a lumber camp, Reuben is in the woods when Judith arrives, and Gary, a cousin, takes her and takes her driving. Blind with rage at the discovery Reuben removes the bodies to his tent. When Judith and Reuben are discovered, Reuben is arrested and Reuben is arrested.

Chapter 33
 His Own Laws

REUBEN walked to the tent's flap, untied and flung it aside. Stopping to pass through it, he tossed her a crooked smile that reminded her absurdly of Judith's when her feelings were hurt. "You're making another try for me, eh? Wish you luck this time!"

The flap fell shut behind him. "Wish you luck this time!" Reuben's words echoed through the tent, echoed around the world. They made a roar like thunder. Judith, waiting for the reverberations to die away, stood staring at the still swaying tent flap like one hypnotized.

Reuben had said that—Reuben! But for his coat hung across one of the beds and his pocket knife lying atop a pile of blankets she could have believed the whole episode a dream.

It wasn't a dream. She and Reuben had done the very thing they so carefully avoided—quarreled. Very thoroughly, too, but at that they had said all they wanted to say. Judith knew it by the tumult that seethed and foamed within her. By her tensed fingers, curved like talons—mute evidence that she wanted to scratch and claw!

It didn't seem possible. What had she been thinking of to allow such an impasse? Gran could have avoided this vulgar situation easily. Judith felt a sudden shame.

"Gran was never hectoring like a trapped animal, Gran never had to live in Casper Street or in a tent and scrimp and save and worry and try not to hate."

She had come further than Gran. The going had been hard. It would be harder. Infinitely harder. Judith knew that. What had just happened between her and Reuben was just the lifting of the lid and letting out the first feeble spittings of a restive volcano.

"I won't say—I won't degrade myself quarreling, fighting. I'll go back to Casper Street in the morning!"

"Then what?" The tent's sloping white walls shrieked at her. "Then what—what, what?"

No matter what, she was going away from here in the morning. Going away from Reuben. She hated him, crude, rude—

Gary! If she went away now she wouldn't see Gary, wouldn't go riding—

But of course she'd see Gary. Wherever she went now she'd see Gary. The knowledge sent her head up. But Casper Street would be unbearably hot—

She hadn't dreamed Reuben would dare to speak harshly to her. Hadn't dreamed he had the nerve. He'd always tried so hard to please—flushed, stuttered, been embarrassed at her slightest displeasure. Been servile—almost. What had happened to change him so entirely?

She did not blame herself. Something or somebody—What? Who?

"Cissy!" The answer zigzagged across her reason.

Not Judith protested vehemently. "No!" Her self-preservation wouldn't countenance that. Cissy had taken one man from her—it would be absurd to have her take two!

THE sun was well up before Reuben found a substance of sanity. The first had been hard. His rage clung to him like myriads of persistent prickly burrs. All night he had roamed the forest—a jungle beast. Passion, raw, primitive stalked with him. He wanted to strike, to hurt, even as he had been hurt. Reason tried to tell him that he was placing undue importance upon a thing inconsequential. He would not listen to reason. Judith had done the way he had slaved and scrimped to bring her here.

His mind veered to Pike. It was all his fault for not preparing the tent, but murdering Pike wouldn't help any now. He must prove to Judith that he was as good a man as Brent—by gam that was what he'd have to do. Next week, next month, next year, but now—this minute! He'd show her! He'd been a fool to take Judith and her codes so seriously. Hereafter he'd make his own laws. Live by them!

Reuben's eyes met, held. Each knew it was war to the knife.

Reuben thought: "I used to think I was the better man—I still think so."

Gary thought: "I'll show this bouncer up to Judith. Let him get into debt, then fire him. Serve him right." He said: "You win, Oliver! The cabin is yours."

"Fine! Now about the rent?"

"Fifty dollars a month." It was an unfair price.

It was $25 more than Reuben could afford to pay with the rent of the Casper Street house still going on. "If you'll give me the key?"

Gary got it. "I'll send Alf over to get your move."

"Please don't. There's only a bag or two. I'll take Judith's Rolls back though. She bought it for $30."

"Some bargain!" Gary followed his visitor out of doors and watched him get into the dejected car.

Reuben's world was stationary once more. The key in his pocket steadied it. Then last night's quarrel came vividly back and set it rocking again. Suppose Judith refused to move to the cabin? What would he say to her? What would she say to him?

Judith was contemplating the outdoor grill in some bewilderment when Reuben arrived. She looked from him as he came in, white linen, a maize ribbon banding her hair. She heard the clatter of the car and turned expecting to see Gary.

"Good morning," Reuben achieved a casualness he did not feel.

"Good morning," Judith's voice was almost amiable. She reminded herself that after last night she should be indulgent, unapproachable, but stirring around the edges of her anger she could not even start the ghost of a flame. Just indifference. She thought: "He can't hurt me. He doesn't matter. I'll see Gary today." She said: "Do you know anything about this grill?"

"We won't need it." He drew the key from his pocket and held it out to her. "To the cabin you so regretted to leave."

The Evening Meal
 BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"WE love having you here," said Rip. "I hope you weren't offended by what I said."

"Oh no," said the elephant. "I was merely teasing you. I am glad you care enough about us to remember some of our ways and about the different kinds of ears elephants have."

"They can remember about ears," sighed Willy Nilly, "as they always have mine to look at."

"Your ears are fine," said the elephant.

"That's the spirit," cawed Christopher.

"I really should do something about them, though," said Willy Nilly. "I haven't the backbone of a worn-out rubber bone if I don't attend to them this summer."

"We've taken up your time," said the elephants, "but it has been fun being here."

"We've had a wonderful time," said Willy Nilly. "It couldn't have been better. And, my elephant friend, I have great admiration for you. Let me get the supper and we'll sit on the veranda by candlelight and I'll tell you what I think of you. I want my Puddle Muddlers to hear too. Willy Nilly got the supper and he had a special meal of young twigs for the elephants. For dessert they had fruit."

"I couldn't ask you inside very well," said Willy Nilly, "as they sat outside, and now the little man had blown out the candles and their only light was given to them by the starry sky."

"It's best to be in the dark while I tell all this," said Willy Nilly. "I want to spare your blushes for you're modest, too, and do not boast as you might."

TRACE ANCESTRY OF ODD INDIAN TRIBE

Houmas May Be Remnant of Mound Builders.

Philadelphia—The Houma Indians of the Louisiana bayou country may be descended at least in part from the prehistoric races of the Mississippi Valley Mound Builders, according to Dr. F. G. Speck, professor of anthropology at the University of Pennsylvania.

The scientist returned recently from a trip of several months from parts of the almost inaccessible bayou regions near the town of Houma, La., after making a preliminary investigation which he said represented the first study of the customs and civilization of the Houma group since a survey 20 years ago by the bureau of American ethnology.

Dr. Speck found the little known tribe, which is made up of remnants of the original Houma and several other tribes virtually wiped out in several Indian wars, to be flourishing.

The people depend almost upon hunting, fishing and oyster gathering in the bayou country and live in comfort and simplicity in the vast marshes and cypress swamps in which the white man usually does not survive, the anthropologist reported.

Their homes are thatched palm-huts and their transportation over the marsh lands is provided by swift dugout canoes. They are contented, peaceable, well ordered, virtually crimeless and extremely clean.

Dr. Speck's findings indicate a link between the present tribe and the "Mound Builders" who developed a high degree of civilization living in the Mississippi valley for four centuries prior to the coming of the white man.

They suggest a connection with earlier peoples on the Mexican coast and Gulf whose position is still a problem in respect to the influence from Mexico which may have resulted in the development of the Mound Builders' civilization, he said.

Are Little Known
Because the Houma have been visited by few ethnologists and therefore are comparatively little known a preliminary investigation has been begun preparatory to a more complete study of their language and civilization.

The present race of fishermen and hunters, which numbers about 1,000 men, women and children and is increasing steadily, speaks Creole French as evidence of contact with early French settlers who drove the Houma from central Louisiana in the eighteenth century, Dr. Speck explained.

In the colonial Indian wars, reprisals for uprisings of other tribes which were caused by French slave hunting expeditions among the Indians brought the Houma into conflict with French colonial troops and armed negro slaves.

Dr. Speck said research had disclosed an order of the French governor of Louisiana in 1730 directing arming of negroes and sending them to wipe out the Indians' bayou villages of Washa and Chawasha to remove the menace not only of the "aborigines" but to arouse enmity between the negroes and Indians to ward off the possibility of a joint uprising of the two races against the French.

American College Boy Is Changing for the Better

Denver—The American college boy is changing—and for the better. This is the studied opinion of Dr. W. Henry McLean of Chicago, traveling secretary of the Sigma Chi national collegiate fraternity, whose job brings him in contact with thousands of college boys in the United States and Canada each year.

This is the best generation of students we have ever had," Dr. McLean said on a visit here. "The 1938 model college boys are World War babies. They are children of the depression and they are more serious than their predecessors."

Dr. McLean said the youth of today doesn't expect to get a job simply by asking for one when he graduates.

He knows business is buying character these days, said the fraternity official. He also knows his only chance to succeed is to prepare himself thoroughly. That is why there aren't many playboys in college this year.

Mongrel Can Count Change for Drinks

Vancouver—Duke, Richard Davidson's four-year-old mongrel, can use his head. The educated cross between a German shepherd dog and an air-dale Irish terrier selects change for his master, helps with the housework, and often anticipates his needs.

Duke is also a card player. He can sniff the cards of opposing players in a deck. The dog knows and can pick the right change for a glass or bottle of beer, a meal or an ice cream cone, and will fetch a broom, shovel, hat or ax on request. He even helped his master to build a cabin in the British Columbia wilds.

Huron Indians' Dance At Stone Ridge Friday

The dance sponsored by the Huron Indian baseball team will be held in the Grange Hall at Stone Ridge, Friday night, starting at 9 o'clock. Indications are that there will be a crowd and a good time.

B. Kelly Says Two Sold Him Portion of Old Canal Bed

The question as to whether there was misrepresentation and fraud in the sale of a portion of the Benjamin Kelly farm south of Ellenville in 1933, was involved in an action heard by County Judge F. C. Traver Wednesday afternoon.

The action was one brought by Benjamin E. Kelly against Rudolph Klingenberg and Mary E. Kelly, a foreclosure of mortgage action. Clarence A. Hoornebeck appeared for the plaintiff and Oscar S. Blinn, of Kelly & Blinn, Scarsdale, represented the defendant.

Specifically defendant claimed that Kelly in selling part of his farm in 1933 to Klingenberg and his then partner, Hans Kuckel, gave them to understand that the parcel of land comprised about 20 acres, also that a portion of the old D & H canal bed and township, which ran through the tract, was theirs to do with as they pleased. Later, defendant claimed a survey by Engineer William F. Dutton disclosed that there were seven acres of land in the parcel, and it was not until 1937 that they learned from a land commissioner that the canal bed property did not belong to the farm but was owned by the Ellenville & Kingston Railroad.

The contract price for the property was $2,000, of which $500 was paid in cash and a mortgage of $1,500 given, $1,000 of which is said to be still due.

the property and a barn. The latter was altered for use as a hen house, numerous windows being put in. Kelly who denied all the charges of misrepresentation or fraud testified that the alterations on the barn had unfitted it for use for general farm purposes. Kuckel transferred his interest in the property to Klingenberg in 1934. The latter lived on the place until June, 1934, then rented. He said that he had collected no rent for the place since he discovered that he had no title to that part occupied by the canal bed.

Judge Traver directed attorneys to file memoranda upon receipt of stenographer's minutes of the hearing.

Model Engineers Will Meet Tonight

The regular weekly meeting of the Hudson Valley Model Railroad Club will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the clubhouse, 541 Broadway.

Arrangements will be made to obtain some additional motive power for the engineer's Hudson Valley Lines, and applications for membership will be received. At the present time there are three vacancies in the charter membership list, which means that the first three applications received will be honored at a reduced entrance fee.

A visit of the Brooklyn Railroad Club is scheduled for Saturday afternoon and evening, April 30. It is expected that probably 10 or 15 members of the metropolis club will visit the local engineer's layout. Plans to entertain this group will be discussed at tonight's meeting.

Stocks Declined For the Third Day

That a reduction of the excessive tax burdens upon business and that there is by no means unanimity on the proposition to inaugurate another era of wild government spending, was emphasized by developments yesterday.

The Senate committee on unemployment and relief, in an interim report declared that enactment of tax revision legislation along the lines recommended by the Senate bill now in conference, would be "exceedingly helpful" in stemming the tide of the present recession. Bernard M. Baruch said that a sympathetic attitude on the part of New Deal tax policy framers was most important in carrying out a program to assist recovery and bolster reemployment by private industry. He is understood to feel that grudging agreement with a tax moderation policy will have a bad psychological effect on a business aid reemployment program.

Secretary of Commerce Roger said that any "pump-priming" procedure should be gradual and while he believes that the government should take steps to aid business he does not believe that the government should continue to prime the pump after it was functioning of its own accord.

For the third day stocks registered declines yesterday, total sales being 750,000. Industrials after showing average losses of over $3 a share during the day, closed at 114.90, a loss for the day of 1.44 points in the Dow Jones averages. Rails showed a slight loss, closing at 21.25; utilities were up a fraction of a point, closing at 17.52. Government bonds continued their upward move; corporate bonds, with the exception of first grade rails, were easier. In London stocks were easier, after a long rise. Foreign exchanges turned sharply lower, with sterling dropping, as observers sought an explanation for the strength shown by the dollar during the past two days.

A. T. & T. reports show that gross operating revenues are running at about last year's levels, despite continued station gain. One-man FCC report is attacked as neither accurate nor comprehensive; 25 per cent rate cut suggested, it is said, would wipe out earnings.

According to John R. Williams, head of Electric Storage Battery company has not had so poor a first quarter start since 1933. Present operating rate for Crude Steel, according to President Hunsinger, is too low to be profitable.

Operating income of New Haven railroad in first quarter was $500,000 short of covering tax requirements according to President Palmer.

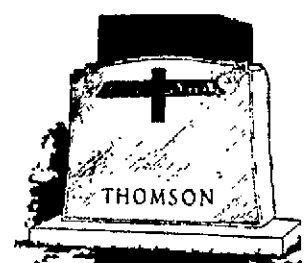

Wheeling Steel had net loss in first quarter of estimated $500,000, vs. net income of $1,308,870 in 1937 quarter.

Electric power production for week ended April 16 was off 9.9 per cent from last year. Car loadings are estimated to have made a more than seasonal gain the past week.

Surviving is the lad's father, Joseph Jaycox of Modena, who is employed by Floyd Harcourt at the Modena food store; his mother, Mrs. Hilah Leifer Jaycox, formerly of New Paltz; one sister, Constance, and his maternal grandfather, Leifer Leifer of Poughkeepsie.

Corporal Norman Baker and Trooper Klein of the New Paltz outpost were assisted in their efforts by the following members of the Central Hudson emergency crew: Roland Hampton, James Clifford and Lewis Short.

city, which is invariably collected.

"It was the collectible value of the home on real property which alone made possible the financing in 1932 and 1933 of a great many communities which had become financially embarrassed," Governor Lehman said.

"The state, on the other hand, collects revenue on profits or income of an business activities which vary.

State Suffers Loss

"Unlike municipalities, which can eventually collect substantially all taxes on real property even though payment may be delayed, the state suffers a permanent and irrevocable loss if the taxes which it has levied bring in a return less than was estimated."

The State's revenues, moreover, must always be in doubt since they are estimated many months in advance, he said. But the State's commitments to the municipalities are absolute and cannot be reduced even when tax returns are disappointing, the Governor said.

"I am convinced," he said, "that in the present situation and with the business future still obscured by much uncertainty, it is essential that all units of government scrutinize their expenditures as carefully and as rigidly as possible." "It can be assumed that for the next several years, because of the financial situation and business uncertainty, it will not be possible to meet all the demands that will constantly be made for new undertakings or for increased activities in the existing services of government."

"We would be reckless to close our eyes to the necessity for restraint."

Photographer Traveled Far and Worked Fast

A. H. Lipgar, the Fair street photographer, believes he must have made some kind of a record the first part of the week, both for speed and distance covered in his line of work.

Monday afternoon and all day Tuesday he spent on a tour of three states—New York, Massachusetts and Vermont—photographing bulk and service stations for the Cities Service Oil Co. He traveled some 700 miles and photographed 37 different stations, part of the work being done in the rain, without a failure. Then to make a day of it, after returning to Kingston late Tuesday afternoon, he took a big group picture of guests at the Amoco banquet held in Governor Clinton Hotel—and 20 minutes afterward was submitting prints of the picture taken.

Leg Lubrication—No Case

Jacksonville, Fla., April 21 (AP)—"You were having your leg lubricated," incredulously inquired Municipal Judge Muncy Anderson of a motorist seeking dismissal of a traffic violation charge.

"Yes sir, every six months I have it taken apart and thoroughly greased," replied the man, tapping his artificial leg. "It took longer than usual this time and I got a ticket for overtime parking."

"Request granted," ruled the court.

IDAHO RIVER LOG JAM THREATENS BRIDGE

Huge logs were piled up like jackstraws against an open drawbridge at St. Marie, Idaho, by the St. Joe river, turned into a wild torrent by heavy rains. The log jam was dynamited repeatedly to save the bridge, which was opened to reduce danger of its being crushed. Because the bridge could not be closed, school children at lower left were unable to return to their homes. This airview was made by the 116th Photo Section, Washington National Guard.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Education Board Picks Terentino

Highland, April 21.—Anthony Terentino, head of the English department in the Park Ridge, N. J., High School, was voted a contract to head the same department here, beginning next fall, at a meeting of the board of education held Monday evening in the main school building. Mrs. Jennie H. Rose presided at the meeting, attended by the full membership of the board, composed of Andrew Wright, Philip T. Schantz and C. Imbrie Richards.

Mr. Terentino will teach English classes in the high school and be responsible for English instruction in both the high school and the grades. He received his

A. B. degree from City College of New York and an M. A. degree from Columbia University. Prior to Mr. Terentino's present position he was head of the English department of the Palisades Park Junior High School and taught English in the Drake School, New York city. His contract here calls for a salary of $2,000 a year.

Upon motion made by Mr. Lent and seconded by Mr. Maynard, it was voted to engage Willard S. Burke physical training instructor, to take charge of the playground activities for the summer. A program of supervised recreation for the children is planned and Mr. Burke will instruct in tennis on the new courts completed last fall.

Edward Smith, architect, reported that progress has greatly improved in the construction of the new junior-senior high school building. The delay caused by the necessity of redesigning the foundation due to unforeseen conditions is now at an end and Eugene Ossie, general contractor, is pushing the work as expeditiously as possible. All foundation trenches have been excavated to the proper levels, most of the concrete footings have been poured and many sections of the concrete foundation walls have been constructed. It is estimated that erection of structural steel will be started within two weeks.

Mr. Ossie announced the awarding of subcontracts to F. G. Schaefer Iron Works of Edgewater, N. J., for structural steel and to Austral Sales Corp. of New York city for furnishing and installing window hardware and blackboard and bulletin board frames.

Village Briefs

Highland, April 21.—Owing to the fact that the Rev. S. A. MacCormac, pastor of the Methodist Church, will be attending the annual Methodist Church conference, members of his congregation have been invited by the Rev. Devello S. Haynes, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, to join in the services at that church next Sunday.

The Taxis Society will be guests of the Young People's Society of the First Presbyterian Church of Kingston on Sunday evening and will have charge of the session. Miss Shirley Hubbard will lead the devotions and Richard Haynes, the discussion. Cars will leave from in front of the local church on Church street at 5:45 p. m.

In addition to the donors previously published, Mrs. William D. Corwin, chairman of the decorating committee, announces the following persons contributed flowers at the Easter morning services: Mrs. William Waterbury, Mrs. J. J. Donovan, Mrs. William Dodge, Mrs. Clarence Rathgeb, Mrs. Edward Griffin and Mrs. A. W. Lent.

Roy Rathgeb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Rathgeb, spent Easter Sunday at the home of his parents on Tilson avenue. Roy is a student at the Long Island College of Medicine in Brooklyn.

The Rev. and Mrs. Devello S. Haynes and daughter, Ruth, and son, Richard, motored today to East Guilford, where they will be guests for several days at the home of Mrs. Haynes' mother, Mrs. Lillian Hyatt.

Charles Roumelis of Main street was in New York city today.

Three Plead Guilty in Marlborough Still Case

New York, April 20 (Special).—Three men, indicted recently by the Federal Grand Jury here for the possession and operation of an illicit still on the Filiceo farm on Hampton Road, Marlborough, entered pleas of guilty when arraigned in United States District Court here today before Judge Henry W. Goldard.

The defendants are Paul Alfuso, Armando Martini and Sylvester Pelicello. They will be sentenced on May 9.

They were arrested following a raid on December 2 on the premises which disclosed a 275-gallon still.

Jean Lafitte, the buccaneer who preyed on shipping in the Gulf of Mexico, commanded a detachment of his men at the Battle of New Orleans and was pardoned for his acts of piracy by President Madison.

WALKILL

Walkill, April 21.—Miss Hope Reeves is spending her Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Prentice Reeves in Maine.

QUICK PICK-UP

SAVED US FROM SUDDEN PERIL!

THE TERRIFYING EXPERIENCE OF MOTORIST CARL K. NUSS
HARRISBURG, PA.

YOUR SAFETY DEPENDS ON TWO THINGS:

It's not only the reckless drivers that have wrecks! Too often they bring grief to the careful driver. There are two ways in which you can protect yourself. First, with brakes that stop quickly—to keep you from getting into a jam. Second, with gasoline that starts quickly—to help you get out of a jam.

Richfield is that kind of gasoline. Its quick pick-up helps you avoid smash-up. So, drive carefully and... switch to richer Richfield! Switch to richer Richfield All-Weather Motor Oil, too. With these partners in power, you—and your family—can feel safer on today's much-travelled highways!

1. "Driving along a three-lane highway, I caught up with a string of slow moving cars. I waited for a clear road, so that I could pass."
2. "Finally there was a long stretch ahead. Only one car was coming in the opposite direction, leaving the center lane clear. I blew my horn and started to pass."
3. "Suddenly one of the cars pulled out just as I was passing it! Instinctively, I swerved—right in the path of an oncoming car."
4. "Brakes couldn't have helped me. I had to get out of the way. So I stepped on the gas, and thanks to Richfield's quick pick-up I shot to safety, just in time!"

THE HONORABLE MICHAEL A. CONNOR

Connecticut's Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, says:

"I recommend that every motorist read TEN COMMANDMENTS OF SAFE-AND-SAVE DRIVING."

Here are TEN COMMANDMENTS OF SAFE-AND-SAVE DRIVING, endorsed by Commissioner Connor and nine other Safety Directors. Get your copy of this book of safe-driving hints, each one personally sponsored by one of the nation's foremost authorities on highway regulations!

★ How can you be sure that the food your child eats contains sufficient iodine to protect her from goitre?

There is only one wise precaution. The Council on Foods of the American Medical Association states: "Worcester Iodized Salt used daily as the only salt on the table and in cooking richly supplements the iodine of diets deficient in that element and thus helps to protect against simple goitre."

Don't risk your child's health. Insist on Worcester Iodized Salt—and only Worcester—for Worcester Iodized Salt tastes the same as Worcester Ivory Salt.

P. S. Be sure to ask for the Worcester Iodized 2 pound (32 ounce) round package. Worcester Salt Co., America's oldest refiners of pure salt, New York, U. S. A.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—9:25 P. M. . . . It is a very black night. . . . The telephone in an east side clinic

jangles sharply, and a young in-

terphone in an east side clinic

transmits, after a pause, . . .

"Well, don't move her. I'll be there directly."

He hangs up the receiver. . . .

"Where is 214 M avenue, Miss

Stephens?" . . . The nurse thinks for a minute. . . . It's a bad neighborhood, doctor. . . . Perhaps someone should go with you."

The doctor slips off his white

coat and puts on a heavy coat.

He goes out chuckling to himself.

Red light, stop. . . . Green light

. . . The old car cuts across town,

emerges into Clatham Square,

edges out to the left, to what is known as the Syrian quarter.

THERE is, suddenly, a flashlight

in his face. "Just come with me," a voice tells him. "This

way. . . . Now, step carefully."

The doc shrugs. . . . But he is thinking fast. . . .

The man leads the way up a pair of stairs and into a room in which no light shows. . . . In the vague shadows are human beings,

edged out to the left, to what is known as the Syrian quarter.

"This way," the man tells him.

"Another man has fallen in behind the doctor. . . . The man who does the talking leads the way. . . . His flashlight is playing against a darkened hallway now.

They follow it, and come to a stairs. . . . They go down these stairs, into a basement, which is blackier than the East river's muddy bottom. . . . The doctor swallows in an effort to relieve the tightness at his throat. To jump out suddenly and chance all on a blow, and a dash up the stairs?

HE THINKS: "This is it. . . .

They've got me. . . . This is it, all right."

"See here," says the man with the light. "There it is. . . . He plays the beam on a black meter

box against the wall. . . . A fuse must have burned out. . . . All the lights went out about a half hour

ago, and me with a poker party on upstairs."

The doctor leans up against a post and fills his lungs with a sudden, full breath. . . . "Didn't you telephone for a doctor? Isn't this 214 M avenue?"

"Doctor? 214? Now, this is 204

Am't you an electrician?"

"I got a call from 214," the medico answers.

"Gee, Doc, I'm sorry. That's old lady Perkins. She must have another fainting spell. . . . She's the one who lives at 214. . . . But

me, I'm looking for an electrician

. . . I got a poker party on up stairs. . . . I got seven guests."

Prof. Einstein has written a new book which makes relatively easy. Well, relatively easy.

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There is going to be a scarcity this year of

those admirable little pictures

some producers delight in making

for the "artistic prestige" they bring.

In any year no picture is made purely for art's sake, but sometimes that consideration weighs

about equally with the hope of commercial returns. A producer

figures he can get by with something "fine" and, if it flops badly,

charge it up to "prestige." But in times like these, the prestige

budgets are low. Some of the jobs

will shoot the works for a combination of prestige-and-box-office,

but the accent has to be on commerce. That the two can go hand in hand is indicated in last year's

"Zola" and "The Good Earth" and in many successful films of other years.

Sometimes Creates Stars

Pandro S. Berman, newly in charge of RKO's production plant,

has undertaken in his time such

choice bits as "Of Human Bond-

age" and "Winter" both in the nature of artistic gambles. They're the type of thing that as a producer he would prefer to do.

Neither lost money, but neither was a big-money picture. But now,

in consideration of the times and

such fury terror and blind uncontrolled power as is shown

when the wings blow over the island and the sea finally washes it into oblivion. These are the love-story careers into the drama that is effectively played by Dorothy

LaMour and Jon Hall and Mary

Astor is also in the giant cast. A

don't miss entertainment thrill.

Tomorrow

Broadway Same

Kingston: "The Adventure of

Tom Sawyer." Boyhood as Mark

Twain saw it and wrote so en-

gagingly about is transcribed to the screen with near perfection in this Technicolor picture that carefully follows the story and that has moments of high adventure

moments of shyness and a sequence of terror which is drama-tized so powerfully that it will make anyone's nerves tense with leer. The production introduces

a new juvenile star to the screen,

whose name is Tom Kelly, and who does a remarkable job in the starring role. Others in this

United Artists picture include

May Robinson and Jackie Moran

Here is a film to be enjoyed by young and old alike.

Orpheum "Mama Runs Wild"

and "Call the Mesquiteers."

Two ordinary features make up

the double picture bill at the Orpheum, the first a comedy of domestic strife with Mary Boland

and Charles Ruggles, the second

a melodrama of the west, the three players known as the Three Mesquiteers.

Orpheum "The Hurricane"

How a little island in the South

Seas is wiped off the map through the fury of a hurricane is the substance of the feature film at

the Orpheum, a picture that has been acclaimed one of the great

classics of last year because of the skill and realism put into the hurricane sequences. Never before has any camera recorded

Mayor to Confer '21 Policy Slip On Tax Problems Cases Adjourned To Next Tuesday

Mayor C. J. Heiselman is to New York city today attending an important conference. He is one of the men of the state who was invited by the State Mayors Conference to meet this morning in the Columbia University Club to discuss problems of regulation of taxation and borrowing as affecting cities, villages and towns in the state.

Mayor Heiselman has also been invited by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, and president of the New York City Budget Committee, to attend a banquet this evening at the Harvard Club and discuss municipal problems which will be brought up by those in attendance.

Mayor Heiselman plans to return to Kingston early Friday morning so as to attend the state public service hearing on the elimination of railroad grade crossings in the city which will commence at 10 o'clock that morning at the court house.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about a pint a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or acute spasms with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to tired kidneys, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give longer relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

If We Advertised Silver Dollars for Sale at 90c, What Would You Think?

You probably would not buy them as you would say, "It does not make sense; there must be some 'catch' involved." Yet this is practically what takes place when a merchant advertises goods that cost him one dollar, for 90c. The difference must be made up on something else. Our prices are low throughout the full line because we buy at the lowest possible net cost, mostly direct from the manufacturer. Our overhead is very low on the volume of business we do. Our actual delivery expense is less than 1% and enables us to make other savings which more than offset it.

FIND HAYDN SONATA LOST FOR CENTURY

Pianist to Bring It to U. S. for Publication.

Paris.—An unpublished Haydn piano sonata, written in 1790, has been discovered by Johann Singer, young New York pianist, and he has arranged for the possessor of the manuscript to take it to the United States in May. Until then his identity is being kept secret.

Singer found the work six years ago among a collection of old manuscripts in a bookshop in Antwerp but he kept the discovery secret until he was able to verify its authenticity and get the opinions of leading musicians in France and Belgium. He is certain now that the sonata is a late work of Haydn, which was never published while the composer was alive and somehow was overlooked by his heirs for more than 100 years.

The manuscript proved to be an old copy made from the original, which is in the possession of a musician in Frankfurt. The work has been played from the manuscript several times in Germany without being identified.

Singer himself has played it at various times in concert in the United States as an encore but did not say what it was.

"The work is a piano sonata in four movements," Singer explained. "I recognized the style when I first played it but said nothing until I had time to go into it thoroughly. I found it had the same thematic material as was used in an earlier, less developed Haydn sonata, and the form and exposition of the work is definitely 'late Haydn.' Professors at the Conservatoire in Paris, and leading musicians in Liege and Antwerp have studied it with me and agreed."

W. P. A. Digs Up Oddities in Oregon's Old Laws
Portland, Ore.—Bicycle riders in Oregon once were required to halt when they approached within 100 yards of a team of horses, dismount and remain standing until the horses had passed, according to a W. P. A. survey of odd laws in the state.

At Astoria in the early eighties the city council ordained that no person should be allowed to ride or drive a beast of burden faster than six miles an hour within the city limits.

An economy-inspired ordinance at Oregon City read: "That it is hereby made the duty of the night watchman to keep in order and light up the street lamps and keep the same burning from dark until daylight in the morning, provided that they are not to be lit or kept burning when it is moonlight."

A study of justice revealed that in 1875 a ten-year-old boy from Multnomah county, convicted of having stolen candy, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary and served his entire term. At the same time a man, sentenced to life for murder, was pardoned after four months.

Monster Snake Conveyed in Deed Found in Ohio
Mansfield, Ohio.—WPA workers engaged in a survey of records of Richland county discovered an eighty-year-old deed conveying not only a 20 acre tract of swamp land

but also a fabulous giant rattlesnake believed to dwell in the marsh.

By deed dated February 10, 1858, George B. Wright, as receiver for a railroad company, conveyed the land and the monstrous snake to Allen B. Beverstock, of Lexington, Ky.

The reptile was supposed to be of such size and strength that it could push down fences, breaking the rails with its weight. Beverstock not only had a clause of conveyance inserted in the deed to gain title to the serpent, but a pen sketch of the animal was drawn on the face of the deed.

The picture was more than 10 inches long. It was that of a gray snake, its back spotted with yellow, with a longitudinal row of black spots bordered with white. What became of the snake, or whether it ever was seen, was not recorded.

Canada Is Building Two Batteries at Vancouver
Vancouver, B. C.—Secondary defenses for the protection of Canada's Pacific coast port of Vancouver are under construction.

The triangular defensive zone will guard British Columbia's principal cities and consist of two batteries of six-inch naval guns across the strait of Juan de Fuca. All water approaches to Vancouver City will be within the range of these land batteries, which will have a range of 14,000 yards.

While technical details of Canada's $36,000,000 defense program are secret, work is progressing on fortifications on the southern coast of Vancouver island to protect the provincial capital of Victoria.

Although no mutual Canadian-American defense measures have been formulated, the Canadian guns, according to technical authorities, could deliver a V-shaped line of fire across the Juan de Fuca strait in concert with batteries on the United States shore.

Steamships on the Atlantic
The Savannah, built in New York is usually considered the first ocean steamship. On May 26, 1810, she left Savannah, Ga., and reached Liverpool in 25 days, during 18 of which she used her engines. Regular steamship service across the Atlantic was started by the Great Western and Sirius. Both ships arrived in New York on April 23, 1838. The Sirius having finished the trip from London in 17 days and the Great Western from Bristol in 15 days.

Goals Around Horses
Having goals around them does not keep thoroughbreds and harness horses more healthy, by preventing disease among them. This superstition, commonly held by race-horse owners throughout the country, goes back to the Middle Ages when peasants believed the devil took the form of a goat when he visited, and kept goats in their stables, which were usually built into the house, to act as receptacles for evil spirits attempting to get into the residence.

The French Broad River
The French Broad river is one of the sources of the Tennessee river and rises in the Blue Ridge mountains of southwestern North Carolina. It flows north past Asheville and west to join the Holston above Knoxville, Tenn.

Ford to Visit, Talk With President Soon

Sudbury, Mass., April 21 (AP)—Henry Ford of Detroit today revealed plans for a discussion of "business conditions" with President Roosevelt, but asserted he would enter this conference with no axe to grind.

Standing in the warm spring sunshine on the extensive Wayside Inn estate, which he has rehabilitated as an early American hotel property here, the multi-millionaire automobile maker said he did not intend to give any "advice." At the same time, however, he left no doubt of his own views.

His solution of present-day problems, Ford said in rapid-fire fashion, would be an expansion of the "back-to-the-farm" movement.

"If people do not raise their own food," he asserted, "they will have to have a dictator to tell them to do it."

He declared that in his opinion, the "farm is the thing that will save the country," and added:

"In no other way can we raise the money. The farms today must provide for industry. As an example I am going to cultivate every foot of the whole acreage here, right away."

Hebrew Name Josiah Is Accorded Two Meanings
The name Josiah, of Hebrew origin, is accorded two meanings, "yielded to the Lord" and "the Lord healeth." The Bible Josiah, last of Judah's good kings, reigned 600 years before Christ.

Josiah Winslow (1623-80) was the first colonial governor of Plymouth colony, now Massachusetts) born in America.

Three Josiah Quincy, father, son and grandson, have been prominent in American history, writes Florence A. Cowles in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. The first (d. 1776) a lawyer, encouraged the colonists to rebel against oppression. The second (d. 1834) also a lawyer, was distinguished for oratory in congress and became president of Harvard.

The third (d. 1862) was mayor of Boston and president of Massachusetts senate.

Krupa's Band Here Friday

Tomorrow night Gene Krupa comes to the municipal auditorium with his band to entertain music lovers and those devoted to the popular dances.

The former Benny Goodman drummer will not forget his waltzes, however, and promises a repertoire that includes the type of music enjoyed by all.

Manager Fred Davi, of the Colonial baseball team, collaborating with the municipal auditorium building committee in sponsoring the dance, reports an encouraging sale of tickets, and presages that there will be a crowd.

Krupa, who became famous in the Goodman band, is classed as one of the premier drummers of the day, publicity notices hailing him as a "one man show."

Fat Women Smother in Tight Girdles

Tight girdles and stiff foundation garments actually make many women look fatter. Instead of squeezing your fat, why not have a slim, lovely, youthful figure that needs but little girdle support?

The Marmola way is the easy way to get rid of only fat caused by an internal deficiency. Marmola Prescription Tablets have been sold to the public for more than thirty years. More than twenty million boxes have been distributed during that period.

Marmola is not intended as a cure-all for all ailments. This advertisement is intended only for fat persons who are normal and healthy otherwise, and whose fitness is caused by hypo-thyroidism with accompanying subnormal metabolic rate. No other representation is made as to this treatment except under these conditions and according to the dosage as recommended.

We do not make any diagnosis as to the function of your physician, who must be consulted for that purpose. The complete formula is included in every package. Get Marmola at your druggist today and send that ugly fat on its way.

Severino Is Given Unpopular Verdict Over Bobby Means

another "silver platter" de-
was handed to Mario Severino
last night at the municipal auditorium. If the boos meant anything in registering the sentiments of the majority.

A loud outburst of disapproval
through the Broadway Palace as soon as Announcer Sam
called out that the Schenefelder had been awarded the verdict over New York's Bob-bly Means.

The cry against Severino, once
one of the most popular little fighters ever to climb through the ropes at the auditorium, was repetition of last week's occurrence when he was picked as
the winner over Carmine Patta, Newburgh star.

Referee Bill Singer voted for Severino for his expert left hand,
which as Severino forced the issue, and made his vote definite in the fourth round when the Newburgher followed up a stiff left to the jaw with a right hand smash
under the heart.

In the fifth, Means clouted the head of Severino with looping lefts
and put across a couple of stinging rights that impressed the crowd.

Means made no complaint, but Carmine Patta, the Newburgh star
who boxed Mario a week ago declared another shot at the upper on the next card in Kingston.

"But you want to have strange ideas, so I won't have to knock you out to win," said the Newburgh Golden Glover.

Last night, Patta was unimpressed
against Hoje Riviero, 130
and New York star, who was met in the decision. The metropolitan lightweight did what fighters do, devoted his time to clinching most of the time and throwing punches that seemed their mark.

Riviero talked with the announcer when the decision was announced in his favor, saying he was sorry that it was not a better
one, concluding with, "I did my best, it's not my fault."

Other results:
Warren Jones, 161, New York,
knocked out Red Van Alstyne, 140, Ravena, in 45 seconds of the third round.

Buddy Emerson, 137, St. Remy, knocked out Eddie Ackery, 138,
Saugerties, in five rounds.

Charlie Haines, 131, Saugerties,
knocked out Joe Roman, 135,
Rena, three rounds.

The officers: Joe Kelly, president; Ed Coughlin, vice president; Edward Banks, treasurer;
Richard O. Gruver, secretary. Gruver replaced Jack Hartman, not a candidate this year, and is the re-elected unanimously, having served the league last season.

Officials were elected as follows: Dick Dulin and Bill Murphy, umpires, and Melvin Lynch,
ground-keeper.

Voting in last night's elections
were the managers of the six teams: Andrew Sweeney, Knights of Columbus; Gus Stelgerwald, Clois A. C.; Jack Dawkins, Ky-anize; George Zadany, Jones Dal-
ry; Charles Diers, Grunewalds; Fred Baumgarten, Hedrick Brewers.

Handing in his roster of players, Manager Baumgarten said
his team would represent the Hedrick Brewers in the league.
Instead of the Huron Indians as previously announced.

DIMAG READY TO DELIVER FOR YANKS

After holding out for almost three months, Joe DiMaggio, New York Yankee star outfielder, accepted Owner Jacob Ruppert's offer of $25,000 and immediately headed East to join his teammates in their fight to retain the American League and world's championship. He is shown on the train in Oakland, Calif., starting on the long journey across the continent.

Kelly, Coughlin, Banks and Gruver Head City Ball Loop, Season Opens Tuesday May 10

MODENA

Modena, April 21—At a recent meeting of the Modena Methodist Sunday School Board, Frank Miller was appointed assistant to the superintendent, Mrs. S. M. DuBois; Marjorie Chambers was appointed secretary-treasurer.

Ernest Behm, DuBois Grum, Lester Wager, Harry Behm, Richard Coy, Jr., went to West Point Monday afternoon to see the baseball game, Giants vs. Army. Game was called on account of rainy weather, but the local fans were pleased to see Bill Lohman, Giant pitcher, who is well known in this section being a frequent visitor of the Behm family and at one season pitched for the Modena baseball team.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tomlin, daughter, Anna, of Staatsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Turner, daughter, Bertha, of Newburgh, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Williams and daughter, Louise.

Mrs. Myron Miller, son, Myron, Jr., of Malden-on-Hudson, visited Mrs. Anna Miller, Tuesday.

Ralph Dewey, Tillson, was a business caller here Tuesday.

Mrs. Lester Wager called on Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Eldred, Highland, Tuesday.

Richard Coy, Jr., was in New York Monday evening.

Miss No. A. Barclay, Poughkeepsie, was a recent visitor of Mrs. Archie Mackey.

Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Powell were callers on relatives in New Hurley recently.

Mrs. Mary DuBois is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Denton.

Hungarian Monarchy Was Founded by Magyar Chief

The Hungarian monarchy was founded by Arpad, a Magyar chief, who entered the region which is now Hungary by crossing the Carpathian mountains from the east. The numerous principalities of the Slavonic tribes were won over by gifts or subjected by force of arms and Arpad settled on the island of Tsepel in the Danube river as the seat of the Hungarian government.

In 907 A. D. Arpad died and was succeeded by his son, Zoltan, who in turn bequeathed his power to his son, Geza. Geza died in 977 A. D., and his place was filled by his son, Stephen, who had been raised as a Christian. After becoming duke of Hungary, Stephen married Gisela, a Bavarian princess.

After suppressing an insurrection in 988 A. D., Stephen established the monarchy and asked the church of Rome to confirm his act. Pope Sylvester II gave his approval to Arpad, Stephen's messenger, and sent him a consecrated crown, which forms the upper part of the Sacra Corona, so famous in Hungarian history. The lower part of the crown, notes a writer in the Chicago Tribune, was a gift from the emperor of Byzantium nearly a century later. Stephen died in 1038 and was canonized in 1083.

The crown is kept in a sealed casket and vigilantly guarded. No one is ever allowed to see it, regardless of his importance, except when a coronation ceremony is to take place.

Dice an Ancient Game

The University of Pennsylvania museum has a special exhibit devoted to the game of dice. It contains dice made of terra cotta unearthed at Tepe Gawra, Mesopotamia, in 1927 that must be at least 5,000 years old, judged by the strata. Showing remains of past ages in which they were found. Another set shown were used approximately 1,000 years before Abraham in 3100 B. C. These are marked exactly the same as modern dice and were found with an illustrated gaming board. Dice were common among the ancient Greeks and Romans. Sophocles declared dice were invented during the siege of Troy by a Greek prince. The Roman poet, Horace, criticized his people for "dicing" instead of learning to defend their country. Mark Antony, Augustus, Nero and Claudia all are known to have played the game.

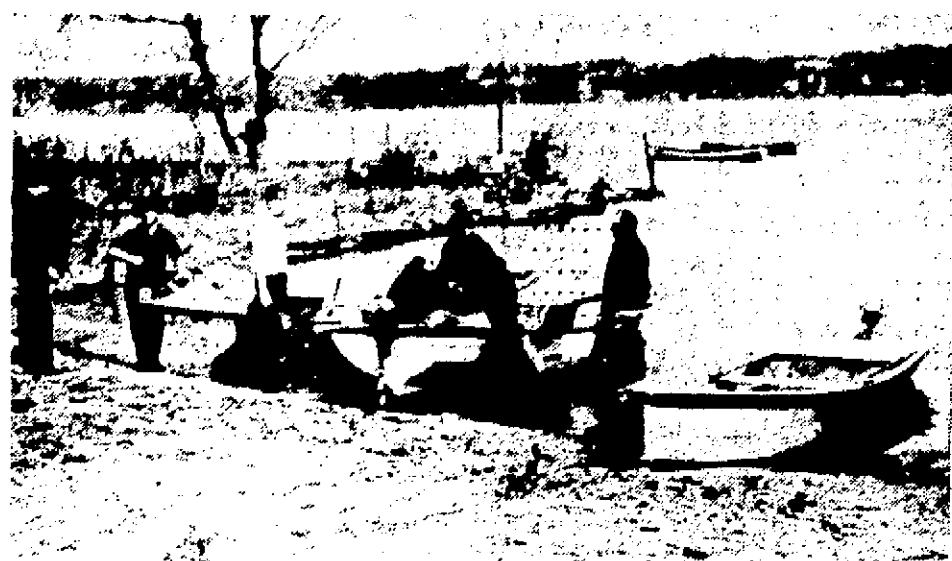

All Bats Have Eyes

Bats are quick to learn and can be trained sufficiently in two days to eat from the hand. These mammals are very clean, washing themselves with their tongues. The saying, "blind as a bat" is incorrect, since all bats have eyes and in all probability are merely dazed by sudden bright lights. Although bats' feet are undeveloped and unsuited for walking, their wings are so well equipped with exceptionally keen sensory nerves that they can whizz through pitch darkness without colliding with any object.

Original Apostle Spoons

The original apostle spoons, of silver or silver gilt, were most popular from 1450 to 1650 and were the usual baptismal gifts during those centuries. The handle of the spoon terminated in a figure of one of the apostles, each bearing a distinctive emblem. Thirteen made a complete set, the Master spoon bearing an image of Christ or of St. Peter. Hayden's "Chats on Old Silver" mentions a record price of 4,900 pounds paid for a set, in 1903. Single spoons have brought from 30 to 100 pounds.

Succulent Hudson River Shad Now Running Off Kingston Point

Hudson river shad are running.

The most succulent fish to swim the water of the Queen river of the New World is being netted and epicures are again enjoying the taste of a real shad dinner. There are shad and shad, but those who know claim that no shad is as delicious as those caught off Kingston Point. Just how many tons of shad are netted during the season in the Hudson river is not definitely known, but enough fish are caught to not only supply the local markets but the big demand for shad in New York city.

For several weeks the local shad fishermen have been overhauling their nets and other equipment and seeing to it that their boats are in first class condition for the brief season, for shad can only be netted during April and the early part of May as they swim up the Hudson on the way to the spawning grounds to lay their eggs.

According to local shad experts the fish seem to be a week behind in their run up the river to the spawning grounds. During the first week of the shad season but few shad were netted but the catch is gradually increasing.

The Freeman photographer visited the fishing grounds at Kingston Point and took some interesting pictures, four of which are shown above. He also learned at first hand that the old expression that a woman's work is never done might just as easily be applied to the shad fisherman during the shad season when about four hours sleep is all that the fishermen can count on during the season.

Work Long Hours

The week's work starts at sunrise Monday morning and ends at sunset Friday evening the shad fisherman is kept busy except for snatching a few hours of sleep. The state conservation commission does not allow shad to be taken from sunset Friday night until one hour before sunrise Monday morning, and it is then that the fishermen tries to catch up on the sleep he has lost during the other days in the week.

Practically all of the shad fishing is done at night and just as the sun goes down the shad fishermen set out for the fishing grounds. Two men are assigned to each boat. Most of the boats are propelled by oars, but some of the fishermen use outboard motors to get them to the fishing grounds.

Each of the shad nets is about 2,000 feet in length and it is the job of the two men in the boat to lay out the net and drift along keeping a sharp watch to see to it that the net does not become tangled. The net is played out slowly, and weights cause it to sink down deeply into the water.

As the shad swim up the river they become entangled in the net.

When the gill nets, as they are called, have drifted with the current for about an hour, they are slowly hauled in and when the shore is reached the net and its catch is hauled ashore.

Then begins the work of sorting the bucks from the roes. An average shad will tip the scales at about three pounds, many, however, running even higher in weight. With the opening of the shad season many customers drive their cars to the fishing grounds as the nets are being hauled ashore and thus are able to pick out a choice, fresh fish.

In Ice Containers

The fish that are not sold at the fishing grounds are placed in long wooden containers which are thoroughly iced. If the shad fisherman has a large order for delivery out of town he carefully packs the fish in containers for shipment.

After the haul of fish has been attended to the next step is to stretch the 27-foot deep nets on their long drying frames and carefully inspect them for entanglements or breaks.

To those who have not followed the life of a shad fisherman it would seem that all that there was to it was to row out into the river, drop the net and then later to haul it ashore and garner the fish in the net.

But it is not always as easy and uneventful as that for most of the fishing is done at night and with an inevitable fog shrouding the fisherman's boat there is always the danger of being run down by the large ocean-going vessels that now pass up and down the river.

Old time shad fishermen can tell of many close calls and many an interesting yarn is spun as they fill their pipes and sit around until it is time to go out for another haul.

The majority of the shad sold in Kingston during the season are caught off Kingston Point by local shad fishermen who maintain their shad sheds where the fish are stored on ice until sold. Still other large quantities come from the shad fishermen of Port Ewen.

Further on down the river large quantities of shad are netted in Newburgh Bay, while all of the villages along the river number shad fishermen among the residents who follow the season year in and year out.
